Myeongji International City

An international business hub in the BJFEZ welcomes foreign investors

Myeongji International City is a new town being developed in the Busan-Jinhae Free Economic Zone (BJFEZ). The area aims to provide foreign residents and companies with high-quality living conditions that would help enhance business.

The town, development for which started in 2010, is expected to be completed by next year. It welcomes foreign investors, offices, research and development complexes, foreign educational institutes and foreign medical institutions. Myeongji International City also includes a zone exclusively for foreign business.

The advantages of doing business in this town include superb incentives and location-related benefits. It is centrally located in a triangular area that connects Busan New Port, downtown Busan and Gimhae International Airport. As a result, the town seamlessly combines maritime and air logistics. Myeongji International City is poised to be a cutting-edge new city founded on self-sufficiency and environmental sustainability.
